With its "Diamant" project, Keller AG in Winterthur is planning an ultra-modern new building costing 65 million Swiss francs. The five-storey production building will contain 4,000 movable photovoltaic panels, which will cover 65 per cent of the company's energy requirements. The aim is to concentrate production at one location and increase efficiency. Keller AG, a global leader in pressure measurement technology, will remain family-run and rooted in Winterthur. It is also the main sponsor of FC Winterthur, which was recently promoted to the Super League.
